

"This One Joke. (A Conversation.)"

By: Thomas Koppchi

Hey, you know the thing of when one guy says to another guy, when I say knock knock you say who's there, and the other guy says okay, and then they say knock knock who's there, and he says orange and orange who then orange you glad I didn't say banana? That shits so funny, man. Man one time I saw that happen in real life.

You did?

Yeah a guy told this joke.

What kind of guy?

Kind.

Oh.

Yes.

I've never had anything that interesting really happen to me, maybe.

Why's that?

Don't know, genetics maybe.

All you gotta do is go out and look. That's how you see stuff.

Can't.

Why?

Genetics.

No.

Every time I go out I never really get a chance to see much.

Why?

Everybody is too fast. They yell, ugly stinky ugly stinky, and run off to find cover.

Oh, your genetics.

I'm just much more stinky and ugly than the average person, genetically.

Well my genetics aren't great either, I still go out.

What's wrong with you?

(Looks at audience.) I'm blind.